Can you hear me? Okay. I hope you're ready to hear this. When we hacked deep into Collusia's files, we found out about a supersuit project that is super dangerous. I named this version the CamoSuit because it was supposed to camouflage swimmers while they were on secret underwater missions in the TimeTilter. But something went seriously wrong: three of the swimmers actually drowned while they were wearing the suits. We can't let anything like this happen again. We have to know: what went wrong and why did it happen? Could someone have stopped it? Please, please, look through the data we've collected and find out. Thanks for your help. I hope we can count on you. We don't want anyone--and I mean anyone--dying on our watch.
